I was on final, 60kts coming into Dutch Landing in Sterling. I touched down about 20ft before where the runway was plowed and due to the 2-3 ft of Powder my tires got sunk into the snow. It nosed me over onto the top fuselage. It was about 8:30 Tuesday Morning on March 3, 2020. I had one passenger on board, Jaden Stultzfus, He had a minor scratch. I had a gash beside my eye and my legs were quite bruised. Nothing serious enough for medical attention.

On landing the lighting was very flat, so it was difficult to judge where the runway was plowed or not.
