Eric,

Mark was unable to contain his composer after the first landing and on the approach to land Mark asked me to please fly the plane. He was not thinking clearly in his mind after the first attempt to land because the plane tried to veer off the runway. I flew the plane and landed it. After the plane landed without incident about 500ft down the runway it started veering to the right side of the runway. Mark and I were both manipulating the controls at the time of incident because it took both of us to push full left rudder.

Jack
