When we visited Geoffrey White on Monday night (April 25th), he was quite distraught. We were told he had been asking for us, and when we approached his bedside he started crying and telling us he was so sorry, saying "I f'ed up, I f'ed up". We told him not to worry, we just wanted him to focus on feeling better. We then went to see Silvia Coello and Fernando Quispe. Before we left, we stopped in to say goodbye to Geoffrey, and he started talking about the accident again.

He said that after takeoff, at 500 feet, he killed the right engine. He said the plane was in a steep bank and Fernando did something wrong so he grabbed the controls and tried to level the plane. He suddenly saw a house and he did everything he could to steer away from it.

Beoff wanted to see Carue and I and eventually they let us in to see him. He was very emotional and kept apologizing and repeating "I F.... up." We comforted him as best we could and then went and saw Fernando and Silvia.

We returned to Beoff before leaving and once again he was very emotional and apologetic again and seemed to want to tell me something so I asked him simply what happened. He said that I F.... it up. On Takeoff we were given right traffic, at 500' turning around I killed Fernando's right engine, the next thing I know Fernando is almost 90° and I grabbed the throttles pulled them to idle and tried to level the plane. I saw the houses and all I wanted to do was miss them, I F..... up and they were doing so well and he exited with multi-training.
