He came in at 9:59am est and rented out a vehicle (Lincoln) from us. He was an older gentleman that had on black glasses and a hat, did not have much hair. He came in and drank some coffee. He was by himself and left in the Lincoln and said he was headed towards Port St. Joe. He flew in on a Cessna 210. He arrived back at the airport around 6pm, returned the keys, checked out due to us already having his information he gave earlier and departed the airport anywhere between 6 and 6:15. I heard him on the radio speaking to another pilot flying in and then no longer heard from him. He was sorta quiet and just seemed interested on getting where he was going. He seemed very normal or what I would consider normal for an older gentleman. He looked to be about the age of 60-70.
