Description: Maintenance performed on Aztec N78329

I contacted Ms. Duncan and asked if she remembered if the maintenance shop performed any maintenance recently on Aztec N78329. Ms. Duncan stated that she did. The owner requested the shop to do an annual inspection at some point this past summer. Although they were very busy, they were eventually able to start doing the work. One of the mechanics, Brendan Doherty, did the work. Brendan worked on the airplane for a while. There were some issues with the engine and propeller and they told the owner that it looked like "the engine was eating itself up" and he needed to overhaul the engine and the propeller. The shop gave him a price quote for the work. The owner stated that he did not want to do that now.

Suzie stated that they told him he would have to pay his bill for the work completed and they would release his logbooks. Once his bill was paid, they left his logbooks in the airplane with the work order showing the work completed and the quote for the overhaul. They parked the airplane on the line. She thinks this was in August some time. A week or so later, they were moving airplanes around on the ramp and the mechanic, Brendan noticed that N78329 was no longer on the ramp anywhere.

I requested that Ms. Duncan provide a copy of the work order and any logbook entries they may have provided the owner. She stated that she would provide them.
