To whom it may concern,

I am manager of the KFGX airport in Maysville, KY.
March 27th, 2021, N735LC, a Cessna 182 was making a landing at KFGX on runway 7. I was at the airport at the time. The aircraft touched down approx. 2,000 ft down the runway and immediately entered a series of several porpoises. On at least one, perhaps two, the aircraft suffered a prop strike. The aircraft departed and approx. 10 minutes later returned and landed. The nose gear tire was flat, but the pilot managed to taxi to the ramp. He was not injured, however the plane sustained an unknown amount of damage.
