Subject: ERA21LA205
Who: Dr. Israel Washington – Pilot

In a telephone conversation, Dr. Washington stated the following:

- Short runway, I have a feeling if they test the brakes, they'll be fine.
- I just went off the runway. I just ran out of space.
- My feeders from the wing tank were indicating that I had half as much fuel as he anticipated. I should have been burning more than 8 gal per hour.
- I wasn't sure if the needles were reading properly so I found a place to land.
- There was nothing mechanical wrong.
- I heard tires squealing so I think the brakes will check out to be ok.
- A mechanic that released the plane from Lunkin Field said everything was fine. No issues with the brakes.
- It had hydraulic fluid, and everything was good during the preflight.
- In the end, it was a short runway, and I didn't anticipate it.
- Nothing wrong with the airplane or brakes.
- Visual conditions, no clouds, nothing was off during the approach.
- I went straight off the end.
