Flight Instructor at Fast Track Flight Training, Knoxville Downtown Airport.
SUBJECT N721SD
DIGEST
I was leaving my hangar on the east side of the airport, and driving on the ramp in the direction of the aircraft as it was landing. Everything looked like a normal landing, nothing that would have alerted me to anything as I have seen in the past. I didn't think anything of it until the right wing started to raise up and I saw the aircraft yaw to left and slowly exit the runway into the grass. The aircraft did not appear to bounce on landing, nor did it appear to be coming in fast. Everything seemed normal until it started to yaw, and I still was not sure what had happened. I had the windows up and AC running so I did not hear anything upon landing.
