The following is a summary of an email from J. D. Corrow, who helped recover the airplane.

"On March 23rd, 2023, I was contacted by airport operations at Raleigh Executive Jetport with the contact info of Shane Graham with the FAA. Shane requested that I check the function of the left and right main brakes via the pilot's side pedals. I had another co-worker turn the wheels forward by hand while I depressed the left and right brake pedals on the rudder controls. I did not notice any obstructions to the left or right rudder pedal or brake. My co-worker confirmed that the wheels had stopped on each side and could not be rolled while the brakes were applied. I then contacted Shane and informed him that I did not find any issues with the brakes."
