It was a normal flight and we went Southeast on our flight. I was in the backseat, watching what the CFI + student were doing. It was time to come back + they were going to shoot the ILS into 9R. Tower switched us to 9L then back to 9R because 9L was being serviced. The comms ~~was~~ were going in + out the whole flight and once we were on the final for 9L I couldn't hear anything in the back. They side stepped over from 9R to 9L and we were coming into land~~ing~~ but we were low + slow. The instructor added power but it felt laggy. Then I felt like the engine failed. Once that happened it felt like we dropped. It happened so fast I didn't even know we hit another plane until we got out. Once we hit the fire was everywhere and we were all just trying to get out. After we were away from the plane we sat on the ground + wait for the EMTs. They came and checked us out and I didn't go to the hospital then but I eventually went myself later.
