At around 11 o'clock this morning, I was standing at my kitchen window at the sink. While standing there, I noticed a plane enter into my field of view. I observed the planes cockpit facing towards me and the right wing pointed towards the ground. The plane looked like it was too low to pull up. At that point, I then watched the plane take out a few branches as it disappeared into the woods behind our house.

I was mowing the front yard and noticed a plane taking off just over the rise. It was taking off to the North as it lifted off I noticed it never gained altitude. It appeared to me to start tilting to the right. It flew across Sams field until it was completely tilted perpendicular to the ground. It looked like he was flying over the neighbor field. The last I saw he was tilted close to 90° to the ground. I did not hear the crash due to my mower. I saw people running in Sams field running towards my property. My Wife came and flagged me down. I went and started looking for the crash. End of Statement. [REDACTED]
