Date: 06/20/2018
Person Contacted: Cecil Bright (pilot)
NTSB Accident Number: GAA18CA359

Narrative:

During a telephone conversation with Cecil Bright, accident pilot, he stated that he lost control during landing roll on the runway. The airplane veered off the runway and impacted a ditch. The airplane's left wing was damaged. He added that the tailwheel was bent and twisted prior to landing. He stated that during preflight at the departure airport, the jet blast from another airplane caused him to fall off a ladder and it lifted the tail for the airplane and slammed onto the ground. He inspected the aircraft and did not find any damage. He departed the airport without any incident but noted that during cruise flight, he felt the airplane was out of trim.
