On or about May 30, 2017, I contacted Air Transport, the salvager of N11DY, to have them check the wreckage for a Cambridge 302 data recorder that was not previously retained.

I subsequently spoke to [REDACTED] the week of June 5th, who confirmed that they had located the unit in the wreckage, removed it, and would send it to me for download. The following week, on or about June 13, 2017, I received a call from [REDACTED] who informed me that the box that contained the recorder had been mistakenly disposed of by someone cleaning up the shop and could not be located in the trash.

END.
