I thought it crashed the street behind mine. I ran down to see if I could help. The plane started to blow.
I saw injured people on the grass. I started to help.
There was an infant, a teen¹², a lady. The teen I calmed down so I could some information from her. She told me she needed to find her mom who was in the plane.
She said there ~~was~~ WERE 6 people total on the plane.
I asked her where she was hurt she said her hip (P)

The lady next to me had significant burns. And her (P) heel was hanging off I had them prop it off up

I was in the bedroom and heard an explosion, rocked our house. My wife yelled "Gail's house is on fire". I ran across the cul-de-sac to try and help. A lot of people were already outside and told me a plane had crashed. I went to the side of Gail's house where I could see part of a plane on fire and part of the yard and two houses in flames. A young woman with burns all over her body came from the area with a baby in her arms. She was screaming my baby isn't breathing. Several people laid both of them on the grass and someone started CPR on the baby. An ambulance pulled up and took the baby and left. Then fire and police started to arrive.

I was leaving Jordan Landing when I noticed the plane taking off. I used to fly small planes so I am always noticing them. I noticed his attitude seemed high, and also his rate of climb was odd as I went west on 7800 S. I kept watching and noticed him start to stall out. He nosed over and started to descend. I lost visual and then saw a cloud of black smoke followed by white smoke. I knew it was near my parents so I came over and it hit the house across the street. I seemed like he stalled and didn't have the altitude to correct, or it did turn to the east rather than west which the prop should have pulled it. Engine was producing power.
