- 1 PITOT/STATIC INSPECTION
Assisted the Customer with a Pitot/Static investigation for a crashed aircraft. The Customer advised there was an airspeed issue that interfered with his situational awareness. I wanted to check the Pitot Probe to see if it was clogged. We inspected the debris and inside of the aircraft, but we could not find it. Some of the workers there said they were told it was snagged, and ripped off. After further investigation we noticed the Pitot mast was clean and had screws missing from indicating it was removed and not sheered off. With further investigating we noticed the Pitot Pressure Poly Flow line still had its A.N fitting and the electrical connectors was properly removed; further letting us know it was properly removed and no sheered off. I continued to check the Pitot poly flow line in the wing to check if it was clogged, but it was clear. I checked the Airspeed Indicator and all checks good IAW Cessna Model 152 Maintenance Manual Ch 15. We also checked the Altimeter but we noticed it could not hold pressure, leaking +1600ft per minute 1000ft above field level. We Also check the Garmin G5 Altimeters, one still had battery power so we check the static pressure system and it checks good IAW Title 14 CFR Part 91.411 paragraph (a)(2). The other G5 couldn't turn on, but we did a leak check and it was satisfactory. No further action was required from the Customer.
