DIGEST
06/13/2023 1045, I spoke with Shane Warner Registered Owner of the accident aircraft. I asked him for the Maintenance records for the accident aircraft, he said he already had them boxed up and was waiting for a call.
He also said there was a magneto in a box in the aircraft that had been replaced, and that mag was the core.
He also stated the accident pilot was a good friend and that he had loaned aircraft to this pilot before, the aircraft was always taken care of and the owner stated he never flew or returned with less than a 1/3 fuel in the tanks. (He volunteered that the pilot never flew with less than 1/3 fuel or never returned an aircraft with less than that amount in the tanks, I assume someone at the accident site informed him that there was no smell of fuel during rescue of pilot & passenger, just reported that the owner talked to the passenger before being admitted to the Hospital) The owner stated that he has always maintained the aircraft and it was in excellent condition.
