On June 30, 2026, I was contacted by [REDACTED] of Inter-State Aviation regarding his company's recovery of the accident airplane from the mountain site near Wells, Nevada. He informed me that he recovered about 10 gallons of fuel from the right wing tank, and that the left wing tank was compromised and he could not recover the fuel from it, but that there were several gallons of fuel in the left tank. He also provided photographs of the wreckage and terrain at the accident location.
